DID NOT PROFIT FROM OIL LEASES

Roosevelt Replies to Stevenson's Statement.

BRANDS CHARGES AS FALSE

Senate Committee Investigating Attorney General Daugherty Calls Additional Witnesses, Including Tex Rickard, Fight Promoter—Daugherty to Advise Public of "Influences" Behind Attacks.

Washington, March 17.—A demand was made in the house by Representative Stevenson (Dem., S. C.) for the resignation of Theodore Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy.

Stevenson said: "Several attorneys were rejected in connection with the oil cases because of their previous connections with the oil companies. The assistant secretary of the navy was a director of the Sinclair company up to the time he entered the war. He returned and took up a position with a bank controlled by that company."

Representative Stevenson read from the Roosevelt testimony before the oil committee that Mrs. Roosevelt had owned Sinclair oil stock. Stevenson proceeded to read from the oil committee's testimony regarding Secretary Roosevelt adding in getting his brother Archie a job with Sinclair, and added: "He got $15,000 a year, twice the salary of a congressman—a remarkable salary to be paid a man that showed up as he did in his testimony."

Mr. Roosevelt was defended by several Republican congressmen, including Leader Longworth, who said: "I am prepared to make a statement that Mrs. Roosevelt was not in possession of the stock three months before the leases were made."

Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement branding as false Mr. Stevenson's charge that he profited from the Teapot Dome oil leases and denounced those who willfully misrepresent facts to injure innocent men as "equally crooked with those who take bribes," and called upon Americans, regardless of politics, to drive such "slandereers" from public office.

Wheeler Calls Witnesses. Senator Wheeler of the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty announced he had summoned Tex Rickard, fight promoter, and Jap Muma and William Orr of New York, all of whom have been named with Jess Smith as parties to the Dempsey-Carpentier fight film exhibitions.

Fred C. Quimby, New York producer of fight films, told the committee how the Dempsey-Carpentier films were exhibited with profits of $125,000 in 22 to 25 states with an "understanding" against department of justice interference, despite the law. In many particulars his story followed the previous testimony of Gaston B. Means and Miss Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jesse Smith, dead friend of Daugherty. Both of these witnesses had testified that Smith was interested financially in the film deal.

Roxie Stinson Smith may be called to the stand again tomorrow or Wednesday.

Replying to the statement made by Attorney General Daugherty, Wheeler declared that a "complete conspiracy" had been shown. He said it was all-becoming of Mr. Daugherty to try to bolster up himself by attacking Gaston Means and Roxie Stinson, who have been star witnesses in the inquiry. Means was employed by Mr. Daugherty, he said, while Miss Stinson was the social associate of the attorney general and of his closest friends.

Mr. Daugherty in his most recent statement said: "As soon as Gaston B. Means and Miss Roxie Stinson have concluded their statements and been cross-examined, I will issue a statement that will, I think, be decidedly interesting and in which I will advise the public of the influences behind these malicious and scandalous attacks and the character of tools that are being used in this cowardly manner by my adversaries."

Wool in Ohio Pool More Than Twice Last Year's Amount.

Columbus, March 17.—Figures given out by the Ohio Farm Bureau federation show that more than twice the amount of wool is under new contract for co-operative sale through the Ohio wool pool than was included in contract signatures of farmers a year ago. Indiana producers are using the Ohio pool again and Michigan farmers are joining in for the first time. Counties that are putting on active solicitation for the new wool contract, which involves the reorganization of the Ohio association under the latest co-operative marketing laws, report more favorable reception of the wool pooling idea, officials of the farm bureau said. In a number of sections meetings have been held to arrange for elections of new directors to complete the reorganization. This step will be taken as soon as 3,000,000 pounds of wool are included in signatures to the new contract.

FLIERS SCHEDULED TO HOP OFF TODAY

Around the World Trip Sponsored by American Army.

Washington, March 17.—The around-the-world flight sponsored by the United States army is scheduled to start today from the field of the Douglas airship plant at Santa Monica, Cal.

The flying squadron will proceed from Santa Monica northward by way of Fresno, Stockton and Sacramento, Cal., and Portland Ore., to Seattle, Wash. Leaving Seattle the fliers will head for Alaska, thence across Behring strait into Siberia, down the coast to Japan and China; through Siam, Burma, India, Persia, Smyrna, Turkey, Austria, France and England; thence to Iceland, Greenland and across the Atlantic to Labrador, to Quebec and Montreal. Leaving Montreal, the fliers will proceed to New York, thence to Washington, then probably to Dayton, O.; Chicago, and by easy stages westward to Los Angeles, the starting point.

If the flight is successfully done, it must be completed by the latter part of August. The hop from Denmark, Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, etc., must be made when the northern waters around the southern end of Greenland are comparatively ice free. No attempt will be made for a time record. Preparations are upon the basis of completing the flight and learning as much as possible of practical benefit to commercial aviation. Land and water planes will be used.

The army air service proposes to make the flight by airplane around the world for the following purposes: To gain for the air service added experience in long distance flying, and particularly in the supply of problems connected therewith; to complete an airplane flight around the world in the shortest practicable time; to demonstrate the feasibility of establishing a commercial airway around the world, and to secure for the United States the first place of practical aviation, the honor of being the first nation to encircle the globe entirely by air.

STAND FOR CASH PAYMENT OPTION

House Members Attack Bonus Bill in Its Present Form.

CARRIES LIFE INSURANCE PLAN

Opponents of Measure Aim to Defeat It When It Comes Up in the House Tomorrow For a Final Vote—Chairman Green Formally Introduces the Bill in the House—Hearings on the Revenue Measure Resumed.

Washington, March 17.—The soldier bonus bill will come up for a vote in the house tomorrow. Under an agreement amendments are precluded, and a two-thirds vote will be necessary for passage of the measure under the rule adopted.

Opposition to the paid-up life insurance plan in the bill is increasing. Advocates in the house of the proposal to incorporate a full cash payment option in the soldiers' bonus bill received assurances from some senate leaders that favorable consideration would be given to such a scheme when the bill reaches that body. Members of both houses are discussing a plan to put the bonus ahead of the revenue bill in the senate. Senate leaders expressed the opinion that, with the revenue bill already before the finance committee, it would be gotten out of the way ahead of the bonus.

Chairman Green of the ways and means committee formally introduced the bonus bill in the house today. Attacks were made on the agreement to bring the bonus bill up tomorrow under suspension of the rules, limiting debate and prohibiting amendments. Members assailed the plan and declared advocates of the full cash payment option should be given an opportunity to amend the measure. Considerable opposition developed on the Democratic side and a plan is under consideration to defeat the bill and attempt then to bring out from the ways and means committee a measure providing for a full cash payment option.

The senate finance committee today resumed hearings on the revenue bill. Chairman Smoot proceeded with examination of treasury officials again today, with a view to ascertaining the exact revenue needs of the government next year. This hearing will be concluded by the middle of the week, and work will then be resumed on the bill with the rate schedules under discussion. Members of the committee meanwhile refuse to commit themselves to any rate plan, although it is known to be the general sentiment that the bill as passed by the house will have to be materially revised to prevent a treasury deficit.

Chairman Green, estimates the maximum cost of the bonus at $2,119,000,000, spread over 20 years. The cost, the report said, could be met by anticipating savings in current expenses of the government. The average of the insurance policies, it was estimated, would be $962. The policies would be valued on the basis of the adjusted service compensation provided in the vetoed bill, $1 for each day of home service and $1.25 for each day overseas. The first 60 days would not be counted.

IN A VILLAGE COURT

Men Taken in Raids Question Authority of Officers.

Columbus, March 17.—Judge Scarle's common pleas court here is set to decide whether prohibition officers employed by a local court can legally make a raid beyond the boundaries of its village and bring violators before the court for trial. Three men arrested in a raid of a local soft drink plant are the question. Their attorneys intend the raiding officers were without authority to act outside the village of Grove City. They contend Mayor Pelton's decision was not to evidence, that the fines were excessive, and that the raid was a prejudicial.

Two others cases were suspended pending hearing. Two others cases were suspended pending hearing. Two others cases were suspended pending hearing.

School Building Damaged. Bellaire, O., March 17.—The local high school building was damaged by fire, which started in the basement.

Recluse Killed. Ottawa, O., March 17.—Dan Shafer, 74, a recluse, was killed under a train near here.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Probing Police Vice Squad.

Columbus, March 17.—Police Chief French today started an investigation of charges relating to the operations of the police vice squad. He will call everyone named in statements now on file with police and question them concerning their knowledge of alleged irregular practices of members of the squad. Should his investigation reveal that there is any truth in the charges, Chief French said, he will suspend the accused policemen at once and file charges against them before Safety Director McCune.

Last Payment in Bonus Fund.

Columbus, March 17.—What may be the last transfer of money from general fund of the state to the adjusted compensation department was made by State Treasurer Day, who certified $500,000 to the department for the payment of soldiers. The department expects to wind up its work early in April. Less than half the $7,500,000 appropriated by the legislature to pay the claims of the soldiers will be used, according to Day.

Held on Liquor Charge.

Salem, O., March 17.—Constable Earl A. Ritchie of Salem, former "card" prohibition agent, was liberated on $1,000 bond under charges of bribery and transporting liquor, filed by Chief of Police T. W. Thompson. Toefl Andrei and John Rotz also were arrested, charged with giving Ritchie a bribe and with making and transporting liquor. Andrei was released on $3,000 bond, but Rotz was unable to obtain bond.

Sues For Money Lost In Betting.

Cleveland, March 17.—Return of $8,400, alleged to have been lost by him in betting on horse races at the Columbus Driving park and Beulah park, Grove City, near Columbus, is asked by Dr. Mortimer W. Price, veterinarian of this city, in a petition filed at Columbus against the Capital Racing association, the Columbus Driving association and officials of both.

Say Girl's Story Conflicting.

Cincinnati, March 17.—Local authorities dropped their investigation of the reputed kidnapping of Mildred Placke, 11, of Bond Hill, when conflicting items in the girl's story were called to their attention. The girl said she was kidnapped by a motorist as she was about to enter the yard of the Bond Hill public school.

Charged With Assault.

Youngstown, O., March 17.—William L. Bryn, an optometrist, confessed, according to police, to assaulting a 7-year-old girl. Mr. Bryn recently came into prominence when he sued his father-in-law, John (Bone-setter) Reese, for $50,000, alleging that Reese had alienated his wife's affections.

Yeggs Cause Blaze.

Youngstown, O., March 17.—Yeggs who dynamited a safe in the plant of the Youngstown Coca Cola company here started a fire which burned the plant to the ground with a loss of $150,000. Several persons were injured.

Breaks Operating Revenue Record.

New York, March 17.—The annual report of the Norfolk and Western Railroad company states that the company had a new high record operating revenue of $85,591,682 in 1923, an increase of $5,238,795, or 5.80 per cent over 1922. The showing was in face of the fact, the report said, that during the first half of 1922 freight rates were approximately 11 per cent higher than in 1923.

WARM CONTEST IN NORTH DAKOTA

Coolidge and Johnson Striving for the Honors.

BOTH SIDES SEEM CONFIDENT

Statewide Presidential Primaries Tomorrow Expected to Disclose Trend of Radicalism in North Dakota. Supporters of LaFollette in Movement to Vote For Him by Use of Stickers.

Bismarck, N. D., March 17.—Statewide presidential primaries will be held in North Dakota tomorrow, with President Coolidge and Senator Hiram Johnson contesting for the honors.

Coolidge is generally held to possess the edge over Johnson, but nobody knows for a certainty who the voters on the prairies are going to pick. Both sides are outdoing each other in expressions of confidence.

Interest seems to be rather apathetic throughout the state. In 1912 LaFollette beat Roosevelt and Taft hands down in the primaries here. In 1916 LaFollette again won. In 1920 Johnson carried the primaries.

This year the most significant phase of the primaries is held to lie in the disclosure they may show of the trend of radicalism in this state, the habitat of the moribund Nonpartisan league. The league has its toes turned up, lacks leaders, the "carpet baggers" have gone to more profitable fields. The communists and other extremists also have disappeared.

The Nonpartisan leaguers are split. Some are on the Coolidge bandwagon. Others are for LaFollette and are whooping up a movement to vote for him by use of stickers.

If Hiram Johnson wins tomorrow it won't mean much, so far as the national convention goes; simply a repetition of 1912, 1916 and 1920, when the state went to a minority candidate. If Coolidge wins Tuesday it merely increases his lead for a first ballot nomination. It may not mean much as far as the election itself is concerned. With the third party in the field, led by LaFollette, North Dakota would be more than a doubtful state.

TO AID LIVE STOCK JUDGES

Extension Schools Planned by University Animal Husbandmen.

Columbus, March 17.—Extension schools to aid judges of live stock at county fairs are planned for next summer by animal husbandmen at Ohio State university. Request for such schools came from stock judges in a number of counties. Back of the plan, say those fostering it, is the desire above all else to establish standards by which will be judged similarly at all Ohio fairs. At present, it is said, change of judges at a fair frequently means change in the basis of award, and a herd which will win at one fair may hardly be considered in the show of a neighboring county.

Initial instruction will be on beef cattle and hogs. Three state associations of beef cattle breeders have named committees of two to serve on the instructional staff of the schools. Swine breeders' associations will make similar appointments. The men chosen from the breeders' associations are asked to bring to the work their ideas on ideal types, and to agree among themselves on points most to be stressed. The schools will be open to fair judges, county agricultural agents, stockmen, or anyone who may be interested.

TO SELECT APPRAISERS

Farmers and Property Owners Will Assist County Officials.

Bowling Green, O., March 17.—Farmers and property owners of Wood county, working with county officials, believe that they have devised a system for satisfactory co-operation of all parties in reappraising property for taxation. Property of Wood county will be reappraised this year. The plan for co-operation started when the executive committee of the Wood county farm bureau met with the county auditor to discuss the reappraisal and methods of handling it to the satisfaction of property owners. An agreement was made with the auditor by which the farm bureau and grange will call meetings in every township to arrange for assistance in the reappraisal work.

All property owners in the township will be invited to attend these meetings. At them every property owner will have an opportunity to vote for two men for appraisers, and the county auditor will receive the names of the seven persons receiving the highest votes as a list from which he may select the appraisers for that township. After reappraisal a second series of township meetings for property owners will be called. At these meetings the complete returns from reappraisal will be open for discussion. Following these meetings they will be turned over to the board of review.

A similar plan is being recommended to other counties in which reappraisal is expected to occur by the Ohio Farm Bureau federation.

To Scan Income Tax Returns.

Washington, March 17.—An executive order has been issued by President Coolidge directing the bureau of internal revenue to permit inspection of income and profits taxes returns by congressional committee upon passage of a resolution by either house requesting such privileges. The order is accepted as having a bearing on the oil inquiry and may lead to an inspection by the senate oil committee of the returns of the Doehny, Sinclair and other oil interests.

BOLLES RESIGNS AS NATIONAL ADJUTANT

Lemuel Bolles, perhaps more closely associated with the American Legion for a greater length of time than any other World war veteran, has resigned his position as national adjutant.

Bolles was a delegate to the Paris conference at which the actual work of organization was completed. He had a part in drafting the national constitution of the organization and was named a member of the executive committee when a permanent organization was formed at that caucus. Franklin D'Oller, as national commander in 1919, named Bolles to the position of national adjutant which he has since held by appointment from every succeeding commander.

He was born in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1885, just when the pioneers were resting after opening up the West. His grandfather built the first grist mill ever erected in that state.

As a youth he tended furnaces, cows and horses during his boyhood, and by these earnings educated himself at McAllister academy in St. Paul. In spare times he assisted in opening up Northern Pacific land grants for settlement, as a member of and appraising and surveying party in the Western Dakotas.

By the time he was fifteen he was riding along the Buffalo divide in the Grande river country—into the Dakota "Bad Lands." Before long he accompanied a carload of western ponies to Yakima, Wash., and chose that section as his home.

He was in the banking, fruit-growing, law and soldiering business, all of which meant diligent study for the young man—a hardy offshoot of the pioneers of the early Nineteenth century. As a climax to the legal phase of his life, he became an assistant in the office of the adjutant general in the state of Washington where he received great inspiration for military life. In 1917, when America entered the World war, Bolles was assistant adjutant general in that state, holding the rank of major.

He was named as assistant quartermaster with the Forty-first division, and was sent to France where he was assigned to Headquarters First Army corps as assistant general in charge of supply transportation and evacuation for the whole corps. He held the rank of lieutenant colonel and served through the Champagne, the Marne, the Aisne-Marne, Toul and Meuse-Argonne drives. For meritorious services he received the rank of Chevalier of the Legion d'Honneur from France.

Still holding a commission in the organized reserve, he is a lieutenant colonel commanding the Three Hundred and Thirty-fourth infantry of the Eighty-fourth division.

His Legion service has been long and useful.

He was given a month's leave of absence on his return to the United States in order to arrange for the first annual convention of the American Legion which was held at Minneapolis in 1919. Following this convention he acceded to the post of national adjutant, which he has since held.

Perhaps no one person in Legion circles has a wider acquaintance. Mr. Bolles' mail reached 1,000 letters a day, his duties have taken him into every section of the country, and he has made countless friends in his breezy, wholesome way.

Mr. Bolles is resigning to accept a position with a firm of New York publishers.

In speaking of the resignation, National Commander John R. Quinn, who had reappointed Mr. Bolles as national adjutant following the San Francisco convention, said:

"The resignation of Lemuel Bolles is a loss to the American Legion. His place will not easily be filled. If it were possible for me to retain his services, I would do so. I could seek no better support as national commander than to continue his services for the organization. It would be manifestly unfair, however, to attempt to persuade him to remain. There comes a time in every man's life when that man must give consideration to his own welfare. I feel that the work Mr. Bolles has done for the Legion, the sacrifices he has made for the Legion, have largely prevented the advancement of his own career.

"He goes from this organization with hundreds of thousands of friends. His unremitting toil for the organization, his zeal in carrying out the administration of the organization, his labor in building up the organization—all these things have become invaluable.

"I can wish him no greater success than that which has always accompanied his efforts as national adjutant of the Legion."

Lemuel Bolles.

Feeding Methods
Help Live Stock
Plan Evolved by Department of Agriculture to Help Breeders.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States Department of Agriculture announces a nation-wide service to bring about improved methods of feeding live stock in the United States. The plan is to bring the knowledge of up-to-date feeding methods to the attention of every live-stock feeder in the country; and, in co-operation with state agricultural colleges, county extension agents, and other agencies interested in the betterment of the live stock of the nation, to offer individual assistance to farmers who have special and difficult feeding problems.

Ever since the beginning of the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign, which has enrolled more than 1,200,000 head of live stock for improvement by means of better methods of breeding, there has been a demand from stockmen over the entire country that the government inaugurate a better-feeding campaign. A large proportion of inquiries on live-stock problems received by the department from farmers of the country seek information on feeding. The plan which has been evolved is expected to render a definite service to those who ask for feeding help, and also to bring a knowledge of better feeding methods to many who would not make inquiries.

Best Methods Not Practiced.
That good feeding methods are known and practiced by the more experienced live stock owners in the United States is shown by the good condition and finish of a proportion of animals appearing at stock yards, and by good records in production made by some feeders. But the proportion can be made larger with benefit to the individual grower and to the nation, according to the department live-stock specialists. A conservative estimate based on a careful survey of American farms shows that there are 14 million head of runty animals in the country. A majority of nearly 1,000 farmers who commented on the situation stated that adequate and proper feed are the principal means of preventing runtness in animals. The tremendous mortality among young animals is largely attributable also to lack of proper care and feed up to and including weaning time. These, and other facts, point to the great need for more general practice of better feeding methods. They point also to the immense amount of benefit that can accrue to the nation in the way of better live stock, more economical production, and a great saving in feedstuffs, if the general live-stock feeding practice of the nation can be made more efficient.

Department Offers Wide Service.
The Department of Agriculture offers an individual feeding service that is available to any live-stock feeder in the country. One of the principal features of this service will be a "Feeding-Problem Sheet" which farmers may obtain from their county agents, state agricultural colleges, or direct from the department at Washington. On the feeding-problem sheet the farmer outlines his problem briefly, and describes his stock and available feeds. The sheet is designed to enable the farmer to give sufficient information in brief form to make additional correspondence unnecessary. The farmer then refers the sheet to his county agent, who makes a recommendation. When the sheet reaches the department a live-stock feeding specialist studies the problem and makes suitable reply.

A great deal of the correspondence received from farmers asking information on special feeding problems does not state the conditions surrounding the problem in sufficient detail to permit of a definite reply. Additional correspondence often causes delay. The feeding-problem sheet will correct this and make it comparatively simple for a stockman to submit his problem in a form such that it may be correctly diagnosed. Farmers will be encouraged to consult local agencies for help with problems that are plainly local in character.

The feeding-problem service will be of help to others besides those farmers who submit their problems for diagnosis. The department will study the problems confronting live-stock feeders in the different sections of the country and make public the results of this study, thereby enabling the entire country to derive a benefit. Every live-stock feeder who submits his feeding problem, telling his present practice and the results being obtained, will be an active aid in the drive for better methods of live-stock feeding.

Handbook Being Prepared.
A vest-pocket-size handbook entitled "A Handbook for the Better Feeding of Live Stock" is being prepared by department feeding specialists for free distribution to farmers who desire a handy-sized set of simple rules and reference tables to be followed in feeding the different classes of farm animals. Requirements of animals, simple analyses of feeds, and simple feeding instructions will enable farmers to understand the principles of better feeding, and fit their own practice to suit the conditions on their farms.

The Department of Agriculture realizes that, in order to accomplish the most good, a drive for nation-wide better feeding of live stock must have the co-operation of all persons interested in the subject. Summaries of the progress of the work will be published to keep those interested informed.

Trimmed
"Europe continues to be a very dear place," says Eugene O'Neill. "You see, they have one price for us Americans over there and one price for the native-born. They won't let us profit by our exchange."

"At a Deauville hotel one morning I was bidding good-by to a wealthy American and his daughter as they were about to set out for Paris by road."

"The daughter said, as she put on her leather helmet in the hotel lounge: 'Have we left anything, do you thing, papa?'"

"The father gave a loud, grim laugh. He tore his receipted bill into little pieces."

"Have we left anything?" he said. "Lord, girl, you mean have we anything left?" —Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Hand and the Brain
An interesting illustration of the processes of reasoning whereby scientific conclusions are sometimes attained is afforded by the case of the human skull discovered some years ago at Chapelle-aux-Saints, in France, which in the opinion of some is probably the oldest bodily relic of prehistoric man. This skull shows many of the characteristics of that of a monkey, but little indication of intelligence. Careful examination, however, revealed a slight excess of size of the left hemisphere, from which it was argued that the owner of the skull was right-handed, and consequently a user of tools, a conclusion which is thought to be supported by the fact that ancient stone implements were found in the neighborhood.

Getting Rid of Old Glue
In gluing joints that have been previously glued, a good job cannot be done unless the old, hardened glue is removed entirely. To clean off the old glue, use a stiff brush—an old tooth-brush will do—and hot water. This will do the work effectively and leave the surface in the best possible condition for rejoining. Allow the wood to become thoroughly dry before making a new joint.—Popular Science Monthly.

New Sweet Cherry.
A new sweet cherry which ripens from a week to ten days earlier than any cherry now grown has been evolved at the New York agricultural experiment station.

COLUMBUS MEN

Hosts to Circleville Business Men at Methodist Church at 6 O'clock Dinner.

A delegation from the Manufacturers and Jobbers association of Columbus, will visit the city today. The members of this association are also members of the Columbus chamber of commerce and their object in paying Circleville a visit is to get better acquainted and also to present from their point of view the advisability of trading with jobbing and wholesale firms in the state capital in a city close to your place of business. There is no reason why you should not patronize manufacturers and jobbers in Columbus, if they can sell you merchandise as close as you buy in eastern markets. Besides, you save the difference in freight and can order more quickly and often.

The main object of their visit to the Scioto Valley is social and to this end our business men are invited to break bread with the Columbus contingent at a banquet given at the expense of the visitors at the Methodist Episcopal church this evening at six o'clock. Those who have not received tickets can procure them by applying to Frank E. Barnhill, president of the chamber of commerce.

There will not be a meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening as the meeting with the Manufacturers and Jobbers of Columbus this evening will take its place.

Somewhat Hard to Believe.
In the department of Seine-et-Marne, France, some years ago a picture of a cow she was herding was printed on a peasant girl's breast by a flash of lightning. The cow was killed, but the girl recovered. An Italian sailor, killed by lightning as he sat near the mast, had upon his back a print of a horseshoe that was nailed to the mast.

Valley Once Great Sea.

The Red River valley, according to Professor Parks, was near the coast of a great inland sea 3,000,000 years ago. This sea stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic Ocean. The sand along the shallow, brackish shores of the now extinct body of water has formed a splendid preservation of specimens of prehistoric animals.

AN OLD IRISH SONG

"There's a dear little plant that grows in our isle,
'Twas St. Patrick himself sure that set it,
And the sun on his labor with pleasure did smile
And with dew from his eye often wet it.
It shines thru the bog, thru the brake and the mireland,
And he called it the dear little shamrock of Ireland;
The dear little, sweet little, dear little shamrock of Ireland."
—Exchange.

Taming of the Cat.

It is probable that cats were first tamed and bred to keep down the rats and mice which infested the granaries of agricultural peoples.

AMUSEMENTS

Under the direction of James Cruze, who produced "The Covered Wagon," "Hollywood" and "Ruggles of Red Gap" it is predicted that the screen version of "To the Ladies" a Paramount picture coming to the Met theater next Monday will surpass in popularity the stage presentation of the three-act domestic comedy which New York critics acclaimed one of the best human interest stories theatergoers had seen in many seasons.

The photoplay is built on a theme rather than a plot. This emphasizes to what extent a clever wife can prove an important factor in her husband's success. Edward Horton as "Leonard Beebe" becomes manager of the Kincaid Piano factory thru activities of his wife, "Elsie Beebe," portrayed by Helen Jerome Eddy, after "Elsie" discovers that "John Kincaid" the factory owner, enacted by Theodore Roberts owes his success to his wife, a part taken by Louise Dresser, the aforementioned all appearing in featured roles.

Other characters are "Chester Mullin," aspirant for the managership, played by Z. Wall Covington; "Mary Mullin" "Chester's" wife, "Tom Baker" an unctious "yes man," who thought he had an inside track on the coveted job of manager, a role assigned to Arthur Hoyt and "Bob Cutter," a traveling salesman portrayed by Jack Gardner.

AS A FLEA SEES YOU!
Fleas have far better sight than men.

A German scientist makes this disclosure, saying their sight is so sharp that when a man is sleeping at night under a blanket in a darkened room his body glows to a flea as brightly as a redhot stove appears to a man in a darkened room.

Man is far behind many animals in both sight and hearing, the scientist says. The human ear catches only a small percentage of the myriad tone waves and, as human eyes do not react to ultra-violet beams, much is lost to man which reaches the eyes of a lower order, he declares.

THREAD OF DESTINY

High School Boys and Girls Will Present Good Play in March.

Ladies and gentlemen, did you ever have a desire to see a real good play whose cast is composed of your own sons, daughters or friends? It is evident that you have had such a desire and that desire can be made a reality on the 26th or 27th of this month. Your patriotism to the school is so great that you would be willing to pay as much as $1 to see a good "home talent" play. We are not asking that much of you. We are giving you this high class play for the small sum of 35 cents.

"The Thread of Destiny" a Civil war story has won for itself a reputation of being an exceptionally good play. No matter what kind of a play you are particularly fond of, you will like "The Thread of Destiny." The story contains three very fascinating elements humor, love, pathos.

The cast contains 25 characters who are working hard to make "The Thread of Destiny" the best play that has ever been given by Circleville high school. It is possible for us to put on an extra good play because Miss Reynolds, who has had considerable experience in directing plays, is coaching us. The work of Miss Reynolds needs no introduction to the people of Circleville.

Don't forget the time and place. High school auditorium, Wednesday and Thursday, March 26th and 27th at 8 p. m. Reserve seat tickets will be issued from Joseph's Clothing store, beginning Monday, March 24.

TURNED TURTLE

James Dade and Family Spilled Out When Auto Upset.

While driving into this city Sunday morning to attend Sunday school, James Dade and his family, accompanied by Earl McCani, met with a serious accident on the Ringgold pike opposite the home of Edward Valentine when the car in which they were riding upset and turned turtle.

The accident was caused by a blow-out originally. A wheel came off and the axle broke and the car then turned over and went into a ditch.

When the machine took a sudden idea to leave the road, Mr. Dade received the full force of the steering wheel on his shoulder and also had his cheek laid open by a piece of slivered glass. Mrs. Dade's back was wrenched but their children; Nellie, Florence, Lucile, Eleanor, Maggie and Baby Bessie, escaped with only slight abrasions of the skin. Their guest, Earl McCani, porter at the New American hotel, escaped with an ugly cut on the ear and bruises about the body.

The Dade family live on the Triangle farm of Dr. B. R. Bales near East Ringgold. The injured were brought to this city by Blenn Bales and were taken to his father's office where they received surgical treatment.

KIDDIES WILL SEE CIRCUS

Children of Pickaway Home to be Guests of Aladdin Shriners April 1.

Circleville Nobles Will Furnish Transportation by Autos—Peanuts, Popcorn, Elephants, Music and Clowns Galore.

The kiddies of the Pickaway County Children's Home will be guests of Aladdin Temple Nobles of the Mystic Shrine at the big circus put on in the coliseum on the State Fair grounds, Tuesday afternoon, April 1.

Local Shriners will take the children from the Home to the circus grounds and deliver them back safe and sound in the evening. It will be a continued round of fun and merriment for the youngsters. Everything that can be done for the entertainment of the children will be attended to with neatness and dispatch. In addition to witnessing the wonderful circus and hearing the delightful music by Aladdin's great aggregation, they will be provided with peanuts, popcorn balloons and whatever else will be good for them and may be available.

On that day Aladdin Temple will be host to all the orphans in its jurisdiction which includes not only Franklin county, but all other counties in central and eastern Ohio.

"Aladdin's Lamp," the official magazine of the Shrine, says:

"Shriners and kiddies go together like Tom and Jerry or pork and applesauce.

"In Columbus the Shriners of Aladdin Temple have been enabled to play the role of 'Daddy' to the orphans of the neighborhood at Christmas and circus time. The star and crescent brings to these youngsters no vision of Turks and atrocities, but a thought of Santa Claus and a string of elephants. The orphaned tot who glimpses your Shrine emblem nowadays wants to climb on your knee and explain what happened to the doll baby that hollered 'Mamma.'"

NOTICE, BUSINESS WOMAN.

The meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club will be held at the post room Memorial hall, Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. Members, notice change of time.

Life's Preparation for Death.
Life is more important than death. In fact, the work of death can only be safely done in life. The practical truth is that which touches us at once, the most sober and solemn view of life, that every single thing we do is actually making death either harder or easier.—Faber.

OLD BESS SURE LAUGHED LAST

By MARY R. RYAN

(©, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

OLD EBEN, ruefully nursing his left knee, limped into the Bartlett Corners general store. With a nod to “Dad” Whitecross, proprietor of the store, and an undevil glance at Joe Larrabee, who had bested Old Eben in their last three checker matches, he carefully deposited himself on his favorite box behind the stove, and stared, with unseeing eyes, at the pile of “dress goods and ladies’ wear” on the shelf behind the counter.

The open box of prunes beside him, usually seductive, went unnoticed, for Old Eben, as was evidenced by the open-mouthed amazement of the small circle surveying him, was not himself this evening.

“Dude” Jenkins, who had been the town sport 40 years before, but who had long since abandoned his frivolous ways, broke the silence.

“What’s a’lin’ you, Eben? Gone and got married? I thought I saw you whitewashin’ the Widow Anderson’s henhouse last week.”

Old Eben ceased his contemplation of the dress goods. Flashing, by way of an answer, a withering look at the audacious “Dude,” he tenderly lifted his left leg over its mate, and turned a sorrowful countenance in “Dad” Whitecross’ direction.

“Old Bess and me had a fallin’ out today,” he began. “You know, ‘Dad’ durin’ spring plowin’, she’s too busy cuttin’ furrows and I’m too busy followin’ the plow for us to play high jinks considerable, and that’s true, likewise, durin’ plantin’ and harvestin’. It’s different, howsomever, when marketin’ over, and all that’s left to do is the milkin’ and other chores.

“That’s why I hitched Old Bess in the carriage today for a trot over to Campbells’ Crossroads.

“Bein’ as this was our first chance at sportin’ since last spring, I’d spruced up a bit and had given Bess a slickin’ up all over. So we started down the valley road in good spirits, Old Bess never slackenin’ speed until we pulled up in front of Homer Walton’s grain store at the Crossroads.

“Hitchin’ her to the post, I was givin’ Bess a few apples as a sort of appetizer for her oats, when I noticed Sid Perkins’ boy comin’ along Main street with an armful of groceries that his maw had sent him to the store for. When he came to where Bess and me were passin’ the time of day, he stumbled and his packages went kerplunk all over the sidewalk in front of Homer’s store.

“I put the apples back in my pockets and was helping the boy pick up the groceries when I noticed what was in one of the packages.”

Old Eben paused. He did not appear to notice that the checker players had abandoned their game. He had no eyes for the fact that Slim Adams had forgotten to whistle. After tenderly testing the joints of his left leg, followed by a prodigious sigh, he resumed his narrative.

“It was Cheyenne pepper, ‘Dad.’ And right there I made a mistake, though old Nick must had a finger in it for sure. Feelin’ kind of skittish, I thought it would be a right smart joke on Bess if I put some of the pepper in one of the apples and feed it to her.

“After cuttin’ a deep hole near the stem I jammed in about half a spoonful, gave her the apple and stood back waitin’ for somethin’ to happen.

“It didn’t take long for Old Bess to find that pepper. She gave me a quick look of surprise and started to cough and sneeze, while the Adams boy and me leaned on the hitchin’ rail and laughed fit to bust.

“With my sides achin’ from the laughin’ I fetched her some water, but Bess acted mighty suspicious before, she would take any, and she sniffed careful-like before eatin’ her oats.

“Toward sundown I came back to where Bess was hitched, but not likin’ the way she looked at me, I didn’t stop to fraternize any, but climbed into the carriage and started home.

“We’d just passed Larkin’s bridge and was comin’ into the valley road when Old Bess opened up with a burst of speed like she showed nine years ago when she won the county cup.

“I tried to hold her in, but she remembered the pepper and pulled away into a gallop that cut my hands and like to have shook me to pieces.

“You know that hole in the road alongside Perkins’ pasture? Well, ‘Dad,’ Old Bess knows that hole, too, and in 10 years she has always gone around it—that is, until today.”

Old Eben’s audience drew closer. The ticking of ‘Dad’s’ old clock up above the cider barrel was the only sound heard as the narrator paused before revealing the climax of his strange recital.

“When I had picked myself out of the burdock bushes and had walked the last mile to home, Old Bess was standin’ at the gate, and I’ll take my oath that she had a twinkle in her eye when I went up to ask her pardon.”

Out of Tune

A young fellow was trying hard to explain to the salesman what he wanted.

“Now, haven’t you this song? It goes zim-zim, zum-zum, zang-zang. You know.”

And the salesman was trying very hard to follow him.

“Sorry,” said the salesman, “but I don’t seem to recognize the tune. What are the words?”

“Those are the words.”

Animal products were much used in medicine from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century. Dried mummy was a favorite remedy. The importation of mummy was an industry of some commercial importance and several writers of that day caution against the use of spurious mummy, giving directions as to what distinguishes the good from the poor product. There was much substitution, and one dealer was found to have done an extensive trade in bodies dried in imitation of the genuine article.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Loads That Are of Benefit.
Every evil and wasteful habit draws upon our strength and resources without making any proper return. FAMOUS PAINTERS WHO HAVE STARVED

Story of Nineteenth Century Masters One of Suffering.

Again and again I am asked by people who "know nothing about art, but know what they like," what there is to admire in the pictures of Van Gogh, two of which have just been acquired for the British nation.

I only run the risk of being laughed at if I say that Van Gogh did not paint a mere chair, but the soul of the chair, and that it is impossible to explain it to those who do not feel the passion with which that wonderful Dutchman realized his conception of the real nature of inanimate objects as well as of living beings.

The wonder to me is not that there are people willing to pay $15,000 and more for one of Van Gogh's pictures, but that this practical recognition of his greatness was delayed until after his death, and that he was allowed to spend his life on earth in sordid poverty and neglect and on the verge of starvation.

But such is the story of the masters of the Nineteenth century, and more particularly of the impressionists and their immediate precursors, Jean Francois Millet, the painter of the world-famed "Angelus," is a notable instance. One of his biographers tells us that "his days were darkened by adversity and hope deferred, the gaunt specter of Want hovered ever about his home and was only driven from his threshold by almost superhuman efforts, while sickness and suffering were never long absent from his pillow."

Even more tragic than the story of Millet's life is that of Meryon's and Monticelli's. Meryon's whole career was a heartening struggle against adversity, ending in starvation and madness. When he had completed his wonderful Paris set of etchings he vainly tried to find purchasers for it at $5 the set. In 1910 an impression of one of the plates, "L'Abside de Notre Dame," sold for $3,200, and $1,000 is about the average price paid by collectors for a single impression of a plate from the Paris set.

Monticelli "lived in such poverty that he had to go round the cafes of Marseilles to sell small masterpieces for $2.50, disposing of them only with difficulty even at that price, and died, half-mad, in destitution."—London Mail.

How Much Can Man Lift?

Just what a man can get under and lift with his back is a mooted question. I have seen a man get under a platform upon which 22 men were standing and rear up and stand with it for over a minute. When I was nineteen years old I picked up with my arms and carried for a few paces a casting weighing 640 pounds. Later I carried a sugar barrel full of chains weighing around 900 pounds and have carried hundreds of barrels of oak-bark extract ranging from 600 to 800 pounds. I used to be a trifle proud of these feats until I got to perusing the World Almanac and noted real lifting and carrying feats which made my best look like child's play. If I remember rightly the heaviest lift made with the hands (unassisted with a rope around the neck) is around a ton.—Edgar Young in Adventure Magazine.

India's Vast Timber Wealth.

India is a little less than half the size of the United States and possesses untold timber wealth. In only one section has there been in operation any mills sawing lumber, that being the province of Burma, while in every other part of the vast country all lumber is whipsawed by hand out of the tree in the place the tree is dropped.

Chic Afternoon Gown Is Made of Crepe de Chine

This charming afternoon gown is developed in flesh-colored crepe de chine. It is banded with moire ribbon of the same tint.

Late Fashion Notes of Interest to All Women

The skirt with a bodice top has returned to style.

Flesh satin makes up an attractive pair of the newest evening slippers to be worn with nude hose.

The Russian tunic effect is becoming more and more frequent. It is seen not only in chic frocks, with a swirl of fur at the hem, but also in long, somewhat loose coats, especially for evening wear.

Included in the list of new laces is a lovely one in black and cream, the foundation being cream and the pattern black. Lace overdresses made of this material are worn over slips of peach or cornflower satin.

Soule has created a sensational spring fashion by a combination of straw and fur. One hat by this Paris designer, with a crown and brim of soft light straw and a straw bow standing up behind, has the wide brim bordered with a thick band of black fox.

The Russian coronet effect, so becoming to most women as an ornament for the evening coiffure, is not now built of jewels. So fond have women become of satin flowers that these coronets are made from buds and blossoms of satin velvet, and sprinkled with brilliants.

Felt Popular Novelty in Gowns, Jackets, Hats

It is in the sports clothes that the most fetching styles for young women are designed. Felt is the novelty in gowns, jackets, hats, in accessories and trimmings. Those things which are not in reality made of felt are of something similar in character, so Paris announces.

In the sports dresses are the easy, straight slip-ons, the sort of frock that appears to have no shape or fit, but the success of which depends, nevertheless, upon the proper cut, length, hang and shoulder fastening. To the degree of attention given to the fit of this type of gown is due the style, or the lack of style, of the woman who wears it.

It is shown in the softer materials and in grades of twill, flannel and crepe-knit. Some conspicuous examples of the new felt applique, stitching and embroidery are imported by the leading houses, but the better styles tend to plainness.

Coats, resembling the once popular blazer, of gay striped or bright-colored flannels, are among the new things. They are almost invariably cut straight and boxy, high at the neck and with long coat sleeves.

Flower Garnitures Are Among Late Novelties

Fetching things in flower garnitures are among the latest novelties received from Paris. The popularity of artificial flowers for trimming evening gowns, for the hair and for boutonnieres has enhanced the importance of this decorative feature, and many beautiful and costly "things are shown.

For a single motif on an afternoon or evening gown or wrap there is a large flower in the form of a conventionalized wild rose, made of black velvet with a center of silver dust and a line of silver outlining the petals. It is a stunning "high light" to form the only trimming.

Countless lovely blossoms—single and in spray—are fashioned of silk ribbon and metal. Few of the sheer gowns, especially for evening wear, are seen without this floral touch. Nothing could be more entrancing than a frock of crisp tulle with skirt of many layers, trimmed with trailing sprays of these flowers. The effect is quite fairylike.

Contest Held in High School Auditorium
Saturday The Winners.

The second annual state music contest will be held at Memorial hall, Columbus, Saturday, March 23. Those who are eligible to enter were selected last Saturday from the classes of competition held in all counties. Each school in the county school system may enter five representatives from its elementary grades and also five from its high school. Each elementary school building and each high school building in cities and exempted villages may enter five representatives in the county contests. Pupils enrolled in the eighth grade or below are eligible for the elementary contest and pupils enrolled in grades nine to twelve are eligible for the high school contest.

The originator of the contest was Mrs. Nellie Sharp, of Columbus, state musical director and her object was to teach children musical appreciation. It is claimed that the subjects of history, art, literature, geography, and language bear a close relationship to music appreciation and may be correlated with many of the contest selections.

The contest in this county was held at the high school auditorium in this city last Saturday under the supervision of City Supervisor of Music Miss Helen Wittich, who also acted as county chairman.

Ninety-five children took part in the contest and each pupil was allowed fifteen seconds to give the name and nativity of the composer, the title of the selection and spelling.

Only those who have exhibited a talent for music are selected to take the tests. The tunes are played on a phonograph and often only a portion of the tune reaches the ear of the pupil. The test is made to determine quick perception and knowledge of the composition. The whole tune is not played for each contestant.

The grades were classed in the county at 24 points and the contestant was graded ten to the point and a score was made when the contestant made 240 points. Grades in the city were given 35 selections and they had to make a score of 350. The high school pupils had to make their scores from 45 selections.

The winners were as follows:

County Elementary Schools.
Max Young, Lucile Mantle and Marguerite Ehman representing Darby township.

Circleville Grade Schools.
Erma Rader, Elliot Barnhill and John Henry Terry representing Corwin building.

Grades at Large Circleville.

To Fight Corn Borer.

Columbus, March 17.—The states of Illinois and Indiana have joined forces with Ohio to check the inroads of the European corn borer, found last year in northern Ohio counties. Farmers in the affected districts are to be asked to set aside the week of April 21 to 25 for a concentrated attack on the borer, and to center their efforts on the burning of cornstalks. Extension agents in the counties during the week will drop all other activities and tour their counties, urging every farmer to burn his cornstalks. The aid of the newspapers, motion pictures and other agencies will be sought in the drive.

SECOND GAME BIG SERIES

Eagles and C. A. C. Have Tied
Twice in Basketball Contests.

Sizzling Game is Promised for the Encounter Tuesday Night—Strenuous Series is Being Played and a Large Crowd is Expected.

At the armory floor, Tuesday evening, March 18, the basketball teams representing Circleville Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Circleville Athletic club will tie up in the second of their three game series for county supremacy, with your chances just fifty-fifty of being able to pick the winner.

These two teams are on form just about as near equal in strength as could be imagined, and the chances are that the breaks of the game will decide the winner.

Twice this season, these quintettes have faced each other, the first game early in the season on the C. A. C. floor and the second last Thursday night at the same place. Those who were fortunate enough to see these two contests will know just what kind of a game to expect in the next encounter; those who did not see either of these games should by all means take in the third contest.

In the first game after an exciting drive by the Eagle team from behind they pulled up on even terms with the club five and the final gun found the two teams in a 20-20 tie. In the overtime period the Birds won out by a two point margin and the crowd was left in a state of hysteria. On last Thursday night, history, to a certain extent repeated itself. In this game the two teams played the entire game neck to neck, with the final result beyond the slightest conjecture of anyone, and after forty minutes of playing which left the entire crowd of spectators in a state of nervous collapse the final gun cracked with the teams even all with a score of eighteen. Again in the play-off the Eagles were victorious by the margin of one free throw, each team having caged the ball once from the floor.

With the first leg of the series safely stowed away, the Eagle team will exert every possible effort to hold their advantage and turn the Athletic club representatives back in straight games and on the other hand the club team must win this game to keep in the running, and it goes without saying that they will play the most desperate game of their experience to tie the series up with the chance of winning out in the final.

Never was a scene set which promised more thrills than in this game on the armory floor and there is no doubt but that every basket ball lover of the community will strain every effort to be numbered among those present. If you are not a basket ball fan you should be; you have missed a whole lot and there never was a better opportunity for you to take your initiatory degree to 100 per cent fandom than you will have tomorrow night.

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher success than
TO BE BELIEVED IN!
